DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: the serial number should be provided for each of the copending applications as recited in pages 1-2 and 6 of the specification.

Appropriate correction is required.

Double Patenting

2. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

3. Claims 1-34 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-24 of U.S. Patent No. 6,839,824. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because: the data library as recited in claims 1-24 of U.S. Patent No. 6,839,824, obviously includes at least one bridge for communicating between the user and the data library as recited in claims 4 and 9 of U.S. Patent No. 6,839,824, and as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention.

4. Claims 1-34 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-52 of U.S. Patent No. 6,715,031. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because: the data library as recited in claims 1-52 of U.S. Patent No. 6,715,031, obviously includes at least one bridge for communicating between the user and the data library as recited in claims 2-23 of U.S. Patent No. 6,715,031, and as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention.

5. Claims 1-34 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-24 of copending Application No. 10/033,009. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because: the data library as recited in claims 1-24 of copending Application No. 10/033,009, obviously includes at least one bridge for communicating between the user and the data library as recited in claims 4-9 of copending Application No. 10/033,009 and as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

6. Claims 1-34 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-24 of copending Application No. 10/033,010. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because: the data library partitioning system as recited in claims 1-24 of copending Application No. 10/033,010, obviously includes at least one bridge for communicating between the user and the data library as recited in claims 2-11 of copending Application No. 10/033,010 and as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

7. Claims 1-34 provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-30 of copending Application No. 10/034,518. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because: the partitioned data library as recited in claims 1-30 of copending Application No. 10/034,518, obviously includes at least one bridge for communicating between the user and the data library as recited in claims 24-30 of copending Application No. 10/033,009 and as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

8. Claims 1-24 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-52 of copending Application No. 10/034,691. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because: the data library partitioning system as recited in claims 1-52 of copending Application No. 10/034,691, obviously includes at least one bridge for communicating between the user and the data library as recited in claims 3-22 of copending Application No. 10/034,691 and as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

9. Claims 1-24 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-21 of copending Application No. 10/034,888. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because: the partitioned data library as recited in claims 1-21 of copending Application No. 10/034,888, is obviously read on the data library system as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

10. Claims 1-24 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-26 of copending Application No. 10/032,923. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because; the partitioned storage area network as recited in claims 1-26 of copending Application No. 10/032,923, is obviously read on the data library system as recited in claims 1-34 of the present invention.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.
